Computer resources at Three Rivers College are available to all currently enrolled students, faculty and staff, and others who have been authorized by the college to be used in a responsible, ethical, and equitable manner. It is important that all users of the computing resources conduct their computing activities in this manner because their computing practices can adversely affect the work of the college and other users.

By activating an account, a user implicitly affirms that: (1) he or she will abide by the broadest interpretation of the following policies; (2) failure to follow policies, guidelines, and procedures may result in loss of computing privileges and/or other disciplinary actions; (3) computer use may be monitored; and (4) the college may terminate the account of anyone who has been determined to have used his or her access for unlawful or unethical purposes or in other contravention of this policy, guidelines, and procedures.
